

How to Fail AP Biology

1. Don't ever ask questions. It will all magically make sense later.
2. Do not ever call Mr. Morone for help, because surely he gives his number so that you will prank call him more often.
3. Read your text and if you do not understand something you have read keep going because you have to finish so that you feel you have done my homework.
4. Do your work as quickly and as painlessly as possible, because earning college credit as a high school student should be easy.
5. Better yet copy someone else's work
6. Best of all just do not do work, because you'll figure out it on exam day.
7. Cheat, cheat anyway you can because good grades feel so good even if I did not earn them.
8. Ignore my advice, you have after all studied, applied and taught biology for twenty years.
9. Text in class and talk about the latest social stories, it is far more important than earning college credit and saving you or your parents thousands of dollars.
10. Never work hard and quit if you do not like me as person or a teacher because failing the AP exam will really show that dumb teacher.
11. Miss as many classes as possible we don't do anything in class anyways.
12. Sleep in class, teens after all need their sleep.
13. Never bring something to write with your fingertips work just fine.
14. Do not bring your materials to class it will make your backpack too heavy.
15. Do not bring paper everyone will buy that for you and besides you can take notes on the desk and bring it home with you.
16. Look for answers on the internet they will let google what ever you need during the AP exam.

17. Wait until the night before an exam to study everything, remember it is easier to learn more in less time than less with more time.
18. Talk to other students about exams, I have an infinite number of great questions in my mind and I would rather make new exams than play with my kids.
19. Skip the difficult questions, the AP exam will only ask easy questions.
20. Believe that reading over a powerpoint that you did not create and skimming the text is an effective study method.
21. Ignore all of the above, you already know everything. DUH!
